2. Between 12 and 21 September 1955, no changes in the occupation of NSAK-Kaserne at Doeberitz were observed. Prior to 5 October, it could not be determined if any details of the ground attack regiment were still stationed at the Kaserne.
3. The following air activity and aircraft were observed at Doeberitz airfield between 12 September and 5 October:

12 to 21 September. About 50 Il-10s were parked at the northern and eastern portion of the field. In addition to the aircraft mentioned, 7 MiG-15s were observed at the field but these planes were not involved in air activity.

26 September. Only about 25 Il-10s were observed at the field. It was presumed that the remaining Il-10s had left the field during the night between 25 and 26 September. The 7 MiG-15s were no longer observed.

27 September to 5 October. About 30 Il-10s were parked at the field.

27 September. There was intensive air activity by Il-10s, which took off in elements of two and practiced flying in formations of up to 9 Il-10s.

1. [Redacted] Comment. Since mid-March 1955, Doeberitz airfield has been occupied by the ground attack regiment, which previously was stationed at Brandenburg-Briest. Because of repair work, the ground attack regiment from Alt Loennewitz was transferred to Brandenburg-Briest airfield. During fall maneuvers, units from the ground attack division at Brandenburg were employed in the exercises, while the ground attack regiment from Doeberitz was transferred temporarily sometime after 6 October 1955, to the training area of the Eighth Gds Army at Thuringia.

MiG-15s are used for training purposes at Doeberitz airfield.

The camp beds placed in the western hangar of Doeberitz airfield are presumably scheduled for the temporarily quartering of recruits. The estimated number of 2,000 camp beds seemed to be rather high.
